PROGRAMME OF WORKSHOPS

Teaching Students with Dyslexia: Best Practices

Paula Roberts, Susanne Clayton
St David's College, Llandudno

This workshop will explore assistive technologies and other teaching strategies that can best support students with dyslexia.

It's not a revolution, but a revelation.

Alexandra Bonet
INS Torre del Palau, Spain

This workshop will explore the 21st century skills and how our classroom management has evolved over recent years. The key concepts of this workshop includes: 21st century skills, gamification, PBL, competency based learning, cooperation and evaluation.

Dyslexia in the Second Language Classroom

Kirsten Kite
Trinity Language Centre, Llandudno

How does dyslexia affect second language acquisition (SLA)? In this workshop, foreign language teachers will learn practical strategies for supporting students with dyslexia in mixed-ability classrooms.

OUR HOSTS AND LOCATION

Trinity Language Centre was established in 2011 and offers a range of language, culture and study programmes to local and international clients. It specialises in residential English language and cultural study programmes for groups of children and teenagers. It also provides a broad range of additional study programmes in other languages (including French, German, Spanish, Polish and Russian) as well as residential courses, adult programmes, visits and activities.

St David's College, an award-winning independent day and boarding school founded in 1965, has been a pioneer in the mainstream education of children with dyslexia and associated learning needs. Its inclusive approach features small class sizes, multi-sensory teaching methods, the use of Learning Tools in Microsoft 365, and a variety of other innovative approaches.

The North Wales coast is one of the UK's most awe-inspiring destinations. The Victorian seaside town of Llandudno, nestled among the rolling foothills of the spectacular Snowdonia mountain range, offers not only an unforgettable landscape but an enticing range of cultural activities, fine dining, music and Welsh heritage.

PROGRAMME INCLUDES:

- Airport return transfer to Llandudno
- Accommodation at Trinity House (two nights)
- Continental breakfast, lunch and two evening meals
- Guest speakers
- Visits to local educational facilities
